ENVOYS STILL ALIVE AND RESISTING ATTACK

All Governments Accept News as Final and London Praises Secretary Hay's Diplomacy-1,000 Chinese Killed.

All the civilized world is at last convinced that the envoys at Peking are safe. The reasons of this belief are:

I.-A letter from the German Secretary of Legation, dated July 21, in reply to a July 15, say that the legations are query of the German Foreign Office.

II.—A message from the Japanese Ambassador, dated July 22, saying bombardment of legations stopped July 17 and that four legations are intact

III.—News by courier received at Tients n and communicated to the British Govern- Into a trap by the Americans and ment by its Consul stating that legations were holding out July 12.

IV .- Authentic news despatch by courier telling of the attack by Chinese on July killed. 10 and the slaughter of 1,000 of them. V.—Repeated assurances by Li Hung Chang following the statements signed by the Emperor Kuang Su. VI.—Threat of the powers to take action in five days if news was not received led to the permitting of the legations to send couriers out of Peking.

Full credit is given our Secretary, John Hay, for initiating the policy of quietly insistent demand for information from the Chinese Government.

Advertising space is valuable, and long-winded stories are seldom interesting or convincing. About all we can truthfully say about this large and magnificent stock is that its equal in quantities, qualities and prices will be exceedingly difficult to find anywhere at the present time. Since every home, hotel, club, restaurant and boarding-house in the land will need all or some of the goods for the coming Fall and Winter and prices at their lowest. The following random selections from stock are given to show, in a general way. the bargains that await those who attend this sale while it is in progress. Successful Inauguration of

Our Eighth Half-Yearly Trade Sale of Furniture.

The first day of a big sale like this is usually a sort of an "Opening Day" or "Show Day," and very little selling is done or expected to be done. But it is ever "the unexpected that happens," and our first day's selling has been a success beyond our most sanguine expectations. We are judging entirely by RECEIPTS-money actually taken in-not by the great crowds that thronged the big Furniture Department all day long. But then, SUCCESS always follows MERIT, and this sale is based solely on merit. A visit and an inspection of the goods and prices will convince the most sceptical of this. In addition to the offerings contained in our advertisements in Sunday's newspapers, we present the following for to-morrow, Tuesday: HANDSOME COUCH, all hair filled, best steel tempered springs, soft
